

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An induction furnace wherein a susceptor made from an alloy comprising niobium, hafnium and titanium is positioned within the induction coil of the furnace. Such a susceptor can withstand prolonged use in an induction furnace, at high temperatures in the presence of oxygen.